Media Alert for immediate release 9/7/2013

'Out of Africa' comes to Exeter CWA , Tuesday 13 August 2013 – limited numbers!

Join internationally acclaimed Moroccan chef Hassan M'Souli and his wife, fashion designer and journalist Najma Elyounsi, for an afternoon of fabulous food and fashion. Enjoy watching and participating as Hassan creates some of the exotic and aromatic dishes for which he has become famous, both in Sydney and in Europe. His cooking classes and promotion of all things Moroccan has earned him the equivalent of a royal appointment, with a letter from the King of Morocco proudly displayed on the wall of his well known Sydney restaurant 'Out of Africa', in Manly!

Exeter Village Hall becomes a Taste of Morocco, offering a cultural experience that includes watching, learning, tasting – and exploring the bazaar opportunity which is offering spices, tagines, books and fashion garments. On offer will be Hassan's two bestselling Moroccan Cookbooks 'Moroccan Modern' and 'Make it Moroccan', which are available in over 12 countries. He received an award for 'Best in the World - African Cuisine Category' at the Gourmand World Cookbook Awards in Paris in March 2010 for 'Make it Moroccan'.

Providing a glamorous context for the food and flavours will be the beautiful Moroccan fashion for all occasions designed and presented by Najma. The Kaftan, or Caftan, has been described as ' a magical, elegant, flowing garment'....think layers of sheer silk over embroidered and textured silk brocade, cotton or linen; jewel-rich colours. These garments have to be seen and experienced to truly feel their charm.

Did you know that the Argan tree grows almost exclusively in Morocco and that its famous oil is as widely used as olive oil? Or – that a Moroccan Mint Tea Ceremony is part of a Moroccan wedding ? NO? Well, join us at Exeter CWA for a 'taste' of this fascinating culture!

Bookings essential: Tuesday 13th August, 2013

At 1:30pm for 2:00pm

Cost: $30
